Late Breaker: Influenza is here! The number of cases of influenza in Colorado and across the United States continue to rise. Currently, the CDC is still reporting that the overall influenza activity in Colorado is low, but has now reached moderate to high levels in some of our surrounding states, including Kansas, Oklahoma, New Mexico, and Texas (https://www.cdc.gov/flu/weekly/index.htm). To date, a total of 13 influenza-associated pediatric deaths have been reported to the CDC during the 2021-22 season.