Late Breaker: The overall number of COVID-19 cases in the US and Colorado continue to fall. However, circulation continues throughout the US particularly in pockets with low vaccination rates. This is of particular concern with the delta variant which has been shown to be much more transmissible and is associated with more severe disease (increased hospitalization rate). The delta variant has been spreading quickly and is now the predominant strain in Colorado (https://covid19.colorado.gov/data), accounting for approximately 75% of cases. With a loosening of public health regulations, we continue to see increased circulation of other endemic respiratory and gastrointestinal viruses.