Late Breaker: Thankfully, although still at record high numbers, RSV positivity has finally started to downtrend. Similar to what other parts of the country have experienced, however, with the decline in RSV we are now seeing a continued and sharp increase in influenza cases. The CDC now classifies influenza activity level in Colorado as ‘very high’ with continued high rates of COVID-19.