Late Breaker: Children's Hospital Colorado is seeing a record high and an unprecedented number of cases and hospitalizations due to RSV, with a test positivity rate over 40%. Additionally, we are starting to see a rise in the number of specimens testing positive for SARS-CoV-2 and influenza A. This respiratory season is incredibly early and may be a severe respiratory season. Good infection control measures are critically important, including vaccination for SARS-CoV-2 and influenza, good hand and cough hygiene, staying home from work and school when ill, and masking in crowded indoor spaces. This is particularly important to consider involving interactions with young infants and children and the elderly who are at highest risk for severe disease with these respiratory viruses.
