Late Breaker: Although the number of cases of mpox in Colorado have decreased since the peak of the outbreak in the summer of 2022, new cases continue to occur. CDPHE released a HAN last week stating that 5 cases of mpox (3 in Mesa County and 2 in Denver County) have been confirmed since late January and multiple other cases are under investigation. All 5 cases were in adult males without any history of travel. Remember to keep mpox on your differential diagnosis in patients with clinically compatible illness and to encourage vaccination for those patients in whom it is recommended.
